FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS ABOUT COLONOSCOPY PROCEDURES

This information will help you to understand your colonoscopy procedure. You will be asked to sign an informed consent based on the following information. If you have any questions after reading this information, please call GI Associates of NH at (603) 228-1763. Your questions are important to us and we want you to feel good about taking this important step to improving your health. While colonoscopy procedures and sedation are effective and safe, we want you to be informed about all of the possible side effects and complications. The nurses will explain the procedure to you during the admission process when you arrive for your procedure and you will also have the opportunity to ask the provider any questions you may have before your procedure and before you receive any sedation.

What is a colonoscopy?

Colonoscopy is the direct visualization of the digestive tract with a narrow, flexible and lighted instrument, called a colonoscope. A camera system in the colonoscope allows the provider to take pictures of your digestive tract. The lining of the digestive tract will be inspected thoroughly and possibly photographed. Following the diet instructions and completing the bowel preparation in this packet allows the gastroenterologist a clear view of the gastrointestinal tract. Abnormalities can be hidden from view if food debris or stool is still present in the gastrointestinal tract. On the rare occasion that the preparation is not sufficient, we may have to reschedule your procedure with an additional prep in order to visualize the entire gastrointestinal tract clearly.

What if I have polyps?

If the gastrointestinal specialist who is performing your procedure identifies or suspects an abnormality, a small portion of the tissue may be removed (biopsy) or the lining may be brushed for cells. Small growths (polyps) may also be removed using a snare (a thin wire device that looks like a small lasso) and cautery. Polyps vary in size from the size of small dots to several inches. Any tissue samples removed from your digestive tract are sent to the laboratory for analysis. It takes approximately 7 to 10 working days for the results to reach your provider. The provider's office will then notify you by mail or telephone about your results and any follow-up care that may be needed.

Will I have pain?

There are no painful sensations when biopsies are taken or polyps removed. You may experience a sensation of fullness, temporary bloating in your abdomen or mild abdominal cramps from the air used during your procedure. It is necessary to use some air to expand the bowel for the provider to see the bowel lining. The provider will take out most of the air at the end of your procedure; however, you can pass the air at any time during and after the procedure. We will start an intravenous line using a very small flexible catheter to give you fluids and medications for sedation and/or pain during your procedure. Giving medications through the intravenous catheter works very quickly to help you relax and may cause you to feel sleepy during your examination. We will work with you to manage the optimal level of sedation you prefer. Your comfort is very important to us and we will ask you frequently about your comfort level while you are here.

Principle risks and complications of colonoscopy

Colonoscopy is considered a very low risk procedure. Although complications are infrequent and uncommon, all of the following side effects or complications are possible

Be sure to ask your provider if you have any unanswered questions about your procedure.

- Medications: The sedation medications used are very well-tolerated by most people. Side effects and reactions are infrequent. Like all medications, sedative medications used during the procedure can cause allergic reactions in some individuals. Sedation may also slow down your breathing, which is treated with oxygen. If needed, we can administer medications to counteract the sedatives. The most common side effect of sedation medications are nausea and vomiting, which is treated with intravenous fluids and medications. Reactions to medications may require additional observation before you can be discharged to home. Although you may feel quite awake when you leave the center, the sedation medications can cause drowsiness and decreased coordination for several hours. The effects of the medications usually subside within 24 hours. Though infrequent, medications may cause some irritation and the intravenous site may be tender for 24-48 hours.
- Perforation: Passage of the colonoscope can result in an injury to the wall of the digestive tract with possible leakage into the body cavity. This complication is extremely rare when performed by gastrointestinal specialist. If a perforation does occur, it is usually related to existing trauma or weakened mucosal walls in the intestinal tract such as from the effects of radiation therapy. Treating this type of injury may include observation in the hospital and sometimes results in surgery to drain the abdominal cavity and close the leak.
- Bleeding: If bleeding occurs it is usually a complication biopsy or removing a polyp. Treatment for bleeding is usually managed during the examination with cautery, placing a tiny metal clip on the bleeding site, or injection of a medication directly into the bleeding area.
 - We may advise that you not take any blood thinning medications, aspirin or aspirin-like products for one week after having biopsies or a polyp removed to prevent bleeding while the biopsy/polyp site heal. This will be written on your discharge instructions. Although extremely rare, severe bleeding may require careful observation and admission to the hospital, possible blood transfusions at the hospital and/or possible surgery.
- Infection: The risks of infection following a colonoscopy are extremely low when national standards and manufacturer's guidelines are followed.

Alternatives to colonoscopy

Colonoscopy is considered a safe and effective way of examining your lower digestive tract, however, there is a rare occurrence of polyps being missed during the examination and/or misdiagnosis or failure to diagnosis. Not all lower gastrointestinal conditions can be diagnosed and/or treated with colonoscopy. The gastrointestinal specialist may recommend other tests or treatments after your procedure.

Financial Concerns

We are committed to providing medically necessary care to patients who cannot pay for all or part of their care, as well as helping patients to access their healthcare benefits. A financial assistance program allows qualified applicants to receive care on a sliding-fee basis.

CEC routinely bills all primary and secondary insurance plans for patients. Patients with large deductibles or co-payments can meet with financial counselors who will help establish payment plans. For more information or to receive an Application for Financial Assistance, call GI Associates of NH at (603) 228-1763.

Your Responsibility

Many healthcare plans have tried to contain costs by limiting coverage; increasing referral, pre-certification or prior authorization requirements; or transferring more of the cost to patients. Below is a list of tasks that are part of our healthcare language as a result of these changes.

- Referral: Managed care authorization from your primary care provider (PCP) allowing you to seek specialty services from another provider. Failure to get a referral can result in a higher out-of-pocket expense.
- Insurance verification: The process of confirming coverage, deductible, co-pay and PCP information from your insurance carrier.
- Pre-certification and prior authorization: Medical necessity screening by insurance plans or a utilization review partner prior to the provision of service.
- Co-payment: The managed care member participation cost for services in various locations such as a physician's office, emergency department, specialist's office or locations out of network.
- Advance beneficiary notice (ABN): Required from Medicare beneficiaries when specific outpatient diagnostic services do not meet medical necessity screening as defined by Medicare.
- Waiver of liability: A signed statement by you accepting financial responsibility if your insurance denies any portion of the claim by failing to adhere to plan requirements.
- Medicare as a secondary payer questionnaire: A set of prescribed federally regulated questions that must be answered at a Medicare patient visit to ensure proper coordination of benefits so that Medicare does not pay the cost of service if another party is liable.

- Claims: Billing forms submitted to insurance companies allowing them to pay for services provided.
- Explanation of medical benefits (EOMB or EOB): Statements provided by your insurance company that explain what it paid and the amount you are responsible to pay.
- Deductible: The out-of-pocket amount you elect to pay before health insurance coverage is available. Deductibles are the patient responsibility through the contract you have with your medical insurance company.
- Coinsurance: The portion of the allowed amount that must be paid by the member out-of-pocket.
- Patient statement or bill: The statement from your provider that lists the amount covered by insurance and your remaining balance. The patient statement and EOB should always agree.
- Laboratory and Pathology Restrictions: Some insurance companies restrict where the patient can have lab tests done or where specimens can be processed. Please call your insurance company before arriving at Concord Endoscopy Center to determine if your insurance company applies laboratory restrictions. The patient is responsible for knowing his or her own particular insurance plan. Concord Endoscopy Center routinely sends specimens to Concord Hospital Laboratory but also contracts with Quest Laboratories.

If you have any questions, please contact billing services at GI Associates of NH at (603) 228-1763.

Additionally, we will seek your authorization prior to the disclosure of your PHI in any circumstance not otherwise covered by this Notice. If you choose to sign an authorization to disclose your PHI, you can later revoke that authorization in writing to stop any future uses and disclosures (to the extent that we haven't taken any action relying on the authorization).
- Personal representative. We will disclose your PHI to a personal representative designated by you to receive PHI, or a personal representative designated by law such as the parent or legal guardian of a child, your agent under an advanced directive, your guardian, a surviving spouse where there is no administration of a deceased individual, or the executor or administrator of a deceased individual.
- Treatment. We will use and disclose your PHI to provide, coordinate, or manage your health care and any related services. Treatment refers to the provision and coordination or management of healthcare and related services by one or more health care providers, including consultation or referral. For example, we may disclose your PHI from time-to-time to another physician or health care provider (e.g., a specialist, laboratory or pharmacy) who, at the request of your physician, becomes involved in your care by providing assistance with your health care diagnosis or treatment to your physician. (State statutes require us to ask for your written consent with respect to disclosure of certain kinds of clinical information, such as medical records relating to HIV/AIDS, mental health, drug or alcohol treatment, and genetic testing). In the interest of providing you with comprehensive health services, the Concord Endoscopy Center and GI Associates of New Hampshire will share your PHI as necessary to provide for your health care.
- Payment. We may use and disclose your PHI in order to bill and collect payment for the treatment and services provided to you. Payment refers to the collection of premiums, reimbursements, coverage, determinations, billing, claims management, medical necessity determinations, utilization review, and pre-authorization services. For example, we may provide portions of your PHI to our billing company and your health plan to get paid for the health care services we provided to you. We may also disclose your PHI to another health care provider for its payment activities if it received your PHI for treatment purposes.

- Health care operations. We may disclose your PHI in order to operate our practice. Health care operations refer to specified administrative support activities by or for a health care provider, including quality assessment and improvement, peer review, training and credentialing of providers, and legal and auditing functions. For example, we may use your PHI in order to evaluate the quality of health care services that you received or to evaluate the performance of the health care professionals who provided health care services to you.
- Appointments and follow-up. We may use or disclose your PHI, as necessary, to contact you to remind you of your appointment, or to call you before and/or after your visit to see how you are feeling and to answer any questions you may have. We may use or disclose your PHI, as necessary, to provide you with information about treatment alternatives or other health-related benefits and services that may be of interest to you.
- Business associates. We will share your PHI with third party “business associates” that perform various activities (for example, billing or transcription services) for GI Associates of New Hampshire and for the Concord Endoscopy Center. Whenever an arrangement between the GI Associates of New Hampshire office or the Concord Endoscopy Center and a business associate involves the use or disclosure of your PHI, we have a written contract that contains terms that will protect the privacy of your PHI.
- Other uses and disclosures. We may use a sign-in sheet at the registration desk where you will be asked to sign your name. We may also call you by name in the waiting room when your physician is ready to see you.

Uses and Disclosures Allowed Without Authorization or Opportunity to Agree or Object

Federal law also allows a health care provider to use and disclose PHI, without your consent or authorization, or opportunity to agree or object, in the following ways:

- When a disclosure is required by federal or state law. For example, the law requires that we report information to the Department of Health and Human Services about victims of abuse, neglect, or domestic violence. We may also disclose PHI when ordered in a judicial or administrative proceeding.
- For public health activities. For example, we are required to report information about deaths, and communicable diseases to government officials in charge of collecting that information, and we provide coroners, medical examiners, and funeral directors necessary information relating to an individual's death.

- For health oversight activities. For example, we may provide information to assist the government when it conducts an investigation or inspection of a health care provider or organization.
- For purposes of organ donation. We may notify organ procurement organizations to assist them in organ, eye, or tissue donation and transplants.
- For research purposes. In certain limited circumstances, we may provide PHI in order to allow researchers to conduct medical research. In most such circumstances, we would be required to get your written authorization before doing so.
- To avoid harm. In order to avoid a serious threat to the health or safety of a person or the public, we may provide PHI to law enforcement personnel or persons able to prevent or lessen such harm. We may also use or disclose your PHI to an authorized public or private entity to assist in disaster relief efforts.
- For specific government functions. We may disclose PHI of military personnel and veterans in certain situations. And we may disclose PHI for national security purposes, such as protecting the President of the United State or conducting intelligence operations.
- For workers' compensation purposes. We may provide PHI in order to comply with workers' compensation laws.

The examples of permitted uses and disclosures listed above are not provided as an all-inclusive list of the ways in which PHI may be used. They are provided to describe in general the types of uses and disclosures that may be made.

Permitted and Required Uses and Disclosures That May Be Made With Your Authorization or Opportunity to Object

We may use and disclose your PHI in the following instances. You have the opportunity to agree or object to the use or disclosure of all or part of your PHI. If you are not present or able to agree or object to the use or disclosure of the PHI, then your physician may, using professional judgment, determine whether the disclosure is in your best interest. In this case, only the PHI that is relevant to your health care will be disclosed.

- Others Involved in Your Healthcare. If you agree or do not object, we may disclose to a member of your family, a relative, a close, personal friend or any other person you identify, your PHI that directly relates to that person's involvement in your health care or payment for your health care. If you are unable to agree or object to such a disclosure, we may disclose such information as necessary if we determine that it is in your best interest based on our professional judgment.

Your rights in relation to PHI

You have the following rights with respect to your PHI:

- The right to request limits on uses and disclosures of your PHI. You have the right to ask that we limit how we use and disclose your PHI. We will consider your request but are not legally required to accept it. If we accept your request, we will put any limits in writing and abide by them except in emergency situations. You may not limit the uses and disclosures that we are legally required or allowed to use.
- The right to choose how we send PHI to you. You have the right to ask that we send information to you to an alternate address (for example, sending information to your work address rather than your home address) or by alternate means (for example, email instead of regular mail). We must agree to your request so long as we can easily provide it in the format that you requested.
- The right to see and obtain copies of your PHI. In most cases, you have the right to look at or obtain copies of your PHI that we have, but you must make the request in writing. If we don't have your PHI but we know who does, we will tell you how to request it. We will respond to you within 30 days after receiving your written request. In certain situations, we may deny your request. If we do, we will tell you, in writing, our reasons for the denial and explain your right to have the denial reviewed.
- The right to an accounting of disclosures of your PHI. You have the right to obtain a list of the disclosures we have made (except disclosures made for treatment, payment or health care operations, disclosures authorized by you, and other disclosures excepted by federal regulation).
- You have the right to obtain a list of instances in which we have disclosed your PHI for a period of up to six years prior to the date of the request.
- We will respond within 60 days of receiving your request. The list will include the date of disclosure to whom PHI was disclosed (including the address if known), a description of the information disclosed, and the reason for disclosure.
- The right to correct or update your PHI. If you believe that there is a mistake in your PHI or that a piece of important information is missing, you have the right to request that we correct the existing information or add the missing information. You must provide the request and your reason for the request in writing. We will respond within 60 days of receiving your request. We may deny your request in writing if the PHI is (i) correct and complete in the judgment of your treating healthcare provider, (ii) not created by us, (iii) not allowed to be disclosed, or (iv) not part of our records. Our written denial will state the reasons for the denial and explain your right to file a written statement of disagreement with the denial. If you do not file one, you have the right to request that your request and our denial be attached to all future disclosures of your PHI. If we approve your request, we will make the change to your PHI, tell you that we have done it, and tell others that need to know about the change to your PHI.

- The right to get this notice by email. You have the right to get a copy of this Notice by email. Even if you have agreed to receive N via email, you also have the right to request a paper copy of this notice.
- The right to opt out of Fundraising Communications. You have the right to opt out of receiving any fundraising communications from us.
- The right to restrict communications with your Health Plan. You have the right to request that we not disclose to your Health Plan your PHI related to any health care item or service if you paid out-of-pocket in full for it.
- Breach notification. We will notify you if there has been a breach in the privacy of your unsecured PHI.

Complaints

You may complain to us or to the Secretary of Health and Human Services, Office of Civil Rights (<http://www.hhs.gov/ocr/privacy/>) if you believe your privacy rights have been violated by us. You may file a complaint with us by notifying our privacy office of your complaint. We will not retaliate against you for filing a complaint.
